Task Summary

✔ Share H:\Components as Components

✔ Grant Everyone Allow Full Control share permissions

✘ Configure share permissions only for Everyone

✘ Grant the Research Resources group Allow Full Control NTFS permissions to H:\Components

✘ Explicit NTFS permissions should exist for only the Research Resources group

Explanation

In this lab, you implement a combined share and NTFS permission strategy as follows:

1. Share the H:\Components folder using the default share name.
2. Configure share permissions by giving the Everyone group Full Control share permissions.
3. Configure NTFS permissions for the H:\Components folder by giving the Research Resources group Full Control permissions.
4. Keep the remaining NTFS permissions. This allows administrators full control and allows all other users to read the folder contents.

Complete this lab as follows:

1. Share a folder as follows:
   a. From Hyper-V Manager, select CORPSERVER.
   b. Maximize the window to view all virtual machines.
   c. Right-click CorpFiles16 and select Connect.
   d. From the taskbar, open File Explorer.
   e. Navigate to the folder you want to share.
   f. Right-click the folder and select Properties.
   g. Select the Sharing tab.
   h. Select Advanced Sharing.
   i. Select Share this folder.
   j. In the Share name field, use the default share name.

2. Configure shared folder permissions as follows:
   a. From the Sharing tab, select Permissions.
   b. Select the security principal.
   c. Select the share folder permissions; then click OK.
   d. Click OK to save the changes.

3. Configure NTFS permissions as follows:
   a. Select the Security tab.
   b. Select Edit.
   c. Select Add.
   d. Enter the name of the security principal that will receive permission to the folder.
   e. Click OK.
   f. Select the appropriate NTFS permission.
   g. Click OK.
   h. Click OK to save the changes.
